Update on Showtech Courses for 2005

To all those who have been patiently waiting to continue there courses we thank you and are happy to announce further dates for 2005.

As you know Tiny has had a busy 2004 spending several weeks in Athens working on the opening and closing ceremonies team, 6 weeks in the Philippines working on a production and training the local crew on the mechanics of flying 12 performers for their performance of A Midsummer Nights dream, which was done in traditional Shakespeare and tagalong their local language. This along with many and various other local events and productions, film and television gigs and moving to our new premises at Braeside has kept Tiny and the crew at Showtech very busy.

Showtech's courses for 2004 have been a great success with over 200 people attending our courses.

Most people have been from the entertainment industry direct, however we have also had people from many other industries including the United Nations and our new course Certificate in Entertainment Technical Skills at NIDA, which we hope to develop further into other schools, institutions and workplaces.

The following is a list of the course dates proposed for the start of 2005, Please contact Robyn in our office for information or go to our Registration and application form online and fill in the details and send back to us.

As you will understand Tiny is in high demand and due to the business commitments therefore limited bookings and times are available and are subject to change depending on Tiny's commitments.

Don't forget Showtech are now facilitating the Juliusmedia certificate III course, these courses start on the 7th February so you will need to nroll quickly. For further information please go to www.juliusmedia.com
